Discussion Items

Composting Discussion with Long Beach

- Had initial issues with contractors because of what they would consider contamination (wanted pure food waste)
- Moved towards back-of-the-house for easier cross contamination control
- Hauling contracts
- Pro-temp: “{Why not go with Athens}”
  - {“Was too expensive}.”
- Eng Sen: “What efforts were done to help reduce cross contamination?”
  - People don’t really read the signage
  - Hopefully with more bins as per new laws, people will begin to better understand
- Pro-temp: “{Where do you locate your buckets}”
  - some is near dinner, most is back-of-the-house
  - only one composting bin in the rec center (barely enough material)
  - Do use it at their child development center, they have a cook that can manage the container. Locked container
- ASI Executive Designee: “What would be good advice”
  - work with waste hauler to see what the program will take vs take and process (avoid greenwashing)
  - Try to go for processing on-site
- Ryan: “How far away are your trash haulers from campus?”
  - Athens was going far (Victorville, San Diego)
- Monika: “How many tons of organic waste?”
  - 2021: 64 tons of food diversion
  - 2019: 194 tons of food diversion
- Norreen: Suggested, help work with students to teach students to separate their waste, “Trash Talkers”
- Pro-Temp: “{How often are bins collected?}”
  - Varying frequency based on time in the year, probably once a week
- Pro-Temp: “Are compostable utensils used in cafeterias?”
  - silverware utensils are used
  - phasing out plastics utensils by using wood-based materials
- Pro-Temp: “Are there campus-wide requirements, like trainings or seminars”
  - were recently able to be part of orientation presentations
- Chair: Asked for more info on trash talkers

- Tabling events to teach students about trash separation
- Trainings for student staffs
- Pro-Temp: “Is Long Beach helping lead the way for composting at a CSU”
  - everyone is doing their best, with the resources they have
- Holli: San Marcos is a good campus to also connect with. So is CSUN
- Ryan: Have looked at in-house composting?
  - Currently don’t have anyone to manage it
- President: what do we want to do with this presentation?
  - Wanted to see what ideas they have done
- Ryan: should be some scalable project for on-campus composting, large-scale program as a learning tool
